

TODOTODAY PROJECT

The proposed project is TODOTODAY, a web application for event / meets management with a social network format. Through this the users can sign up or promote events such as: going out to a nightclub with a group of people, promoting neighborhood parties, organizing a stay to do taichi, etc.

The doubt that is presented to us every day is the same doubt that our application aims to eradicate (What could I do today?).

Our web application aims to become a social network that can finally unite us all and that, unlike others socials networks, distances us.

This social network format adopted by TODOTODAY allows us to follow users and keep informed of their activity.

We can also keep connected with different events once we have notified our assistance.

Users will have the possibility to create their own events, giving the opportunity to other people to join it once it is published.
